

Analytical Findings

1. Personal Loans have the highest demand

Personal Loans have 30,075 applications, the highest among all loan types. Home Loans are close with 29,886 applications.

2. Home Loans represent the largest loan exposure

Home Loans contribute approximately 59.08% of the total loan amount, making them the largest loan category by financial value.

3. Credit score is strongly associated with approval performance

Approval rate is 66.94% for Good, 55.68% for Fair, and 46.78% for Poor credit-score customers. This shows a clear difference in approval performance across credit-score bands.

4. Salaried customers have the strongest approval performance

Salaried customers have the highest approval rate among employment groups at 64.24%, compared with 61.71% Self-Employed, 61.27% Business, and 59.22% Freelancer.

5. Auto Loans have the highest average payment delay

Auto Loans have the highest average payment delay at 10.31 days, indicating that this segment needs closer repayment monitoring.

6. High payment delays affect a smaller but important customer group

There are 4,211 customers with payment delays above 60 days, representing approximately 4.21% of all records.

7. Young customers show the highest default rate

The Young age group has a 4.80% default rate, higher than Adult (4.35%), Senior (4.31%), and Older (4.20%). This segment may require additional repayment-risk monitoring.
